The boycott on high food prices, started in Cleveland, O., a week ago, is spreading over the country like a prairie fire. Arthur Goebel, brother of Gov. William Goebel, of Kentucky, who was assassinated, died at Phoenix, Ariz., Friday. He was the youngest member of a family of three brothers, and was born at Carbondale, Pa., 1863. He was educated in law, but abandoned that profession on account of ill health. He was the sole heir to his dead brother's estate, and is said to have spent most of that fortune in prosecution of the alleged assassins of the murdered Governor. Mr. Goebel will be buried at Covington this week.

A movement was inaugurated among some of the House members recently for the adoption of a resolution by both branches of the General Assembly asking acting Gov. Linn to pardon Henry Youtsey, the only one of the Goebel conspirators who is being punished for the crime. The argument was to be made that Gov. Willson having released Taylor, Powers, Howard and others who were more guilty than he, Youtsey, ought to be given his freedom also. The movement toward putting the resolution under way was taking tangible form in the House when friends of Gov. Linn in the Senate put a damper on it by stating that it would put Gov. Linn in an embarrassing position, inasmuch as he did not desire to be placed in the attitude of seeking to take advantage of the absence of the Republican executives and do something which they might not have been willing to have done had they been present. Considerable sentiment was aroused in favor of the proposition and prominent members of the House declare that it would have carried there with a whoop.

After hearing the committee of the Burley Tobacco Society, it is probable that the Department of Justice will take no action toward the dissolution of the organization. War has been declared by the Secretary of Agriculture upon the English sparrow, which, according to the department, "among birds is comparable to the rat among mammals." With this end in view, the department is circulating extensively a bulletin on how to destroy this "cunning, destructive and filthy bird." Dr. J. M. Andrew, of Wingo, received a nice and appreciated New Year's present in the shape of a check for $800. This amount was for ginseng, which the doctor raised in his garden and shipped away recently. Beuris, traveling salesman, Lexington, Ky.; John Watkins brakeman, Cannel City, Ky., and B. H. Williams, mail clerk, Campton Ky. Lexington, Ky., Jan. 21.—In the course of its editorial comment on the appointment of Timothy A. Field, of Ashland, to succeed Sam J. Roberts as Collector of Internal Revenue for this district, the Lexington Herald says:

"The only possible reason for the appointment of Mr. Field is that President Taft has surrendered the distribution of patronage in Kentucky to Senator Bradley, permitting the Senator to reward his friends and to punish the President's friends.

"Allying himself with Ballinger against Pinchot; defending the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, and denouncing as enemies of the Administration those members of the upper and lower House of Congress who have stood for the interests of the people; permitting himself to be used to punish those who proved themselves his friends when he needed friends, President Taft stands today revealed to be a far different man from what Judge Taft was supposed to be when he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for President."

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 19.—Kentucky returned to her own today when a champion of Democracy assumed the gubernatorial chair in the person of Conn Linn, of Calloway county, who became Acting Governor, when Lieut. Gov. Cox, who has been holding down the job while Gov. Willson is hobnobbing at the Conference of Governors in Washington, stepped over to Cincinnati for the day. Senator Linn had been Governor once before, but then it was but for a few hours while both of the Republican executives were out of the State, and he did not formally assume the duties of the office at that time.

Senator Linn was presiding in the Senate of which he is president pro tem, when the Governor's private secretary, M. R. Todd, appeared and notified the Senate that it was Governor Linn and his proper place was the executive office. Gov. Linn designated Senator W. V. Eaton, of McCracken county, to preside in the chair during his absence, and repaired to the executive office. The Senate immediately took a recess and called upon the Governor, in the reception room, tendering him its congratulations. Several handsome bouquets of flowers were sent by admiring friends, and the Governor was compelled to hold a levee all day entertaining callers.

The first official business of the new Governor was the appointment of his wife as a notary public and the sending of a number of nominations as notaries public to the Senate for approval.
